

ALL IN LINE TO DEFEAT DEVERY

Leader Murphy "Placates" Alderman Dowling and Eliminates a Third Candidate in Ninth District Primaries.

EX-SHEEHANITE WILL BE NAMED FOR RE-ELECTION.

This Leaves the Field Clear for a Straight Fight on Devery, but the ex-Chief Declares He Will Win.

With a quick, deft twist of his dexter wrist, Leader Charles F. Murphy wrung the neck of William S. Devery and removed him as a factor in the coming municipal election, according to ex-Councilman Frank J. Goodwin, Secretary Thomas F. Smith and the others of the "regular organization" in the Ninth Assembly District.

Peace has been established between the Goodwinites and Alderman Frank L. Dowling, who was determined to run for the leadership as a third candidate, with the seemingly inevitable result of no dividing the anti-Devery vote as to insure the election of the Big Bug of the famous society of Burgs, has been placated, and the fight is reduced to Goodwin and Devery, with Dowling and his followers working for Goodwin.

There is jubilation in the Horatio Seymour Club, which is the "organization" club of the district, and to which Goodwin, Smith and the other friends of the "regular organization" belong, for they no longer have any doubt of the result, and Murphy says he will not be put to the necessity of a repetition of shutting the door of Tammany Hall in the face of "Large William" again, although the courts sustained the action.

Transfers Cut Off.

Devery had over nine hundred "transfers" last year. That is, nine hundred voters moved into the Ninth from other districts just before the primaries, as they had a legal right to do, for the express purpose of voting for Devery—and presumably Devery's campaign fund paid the expense, board and the like. But this year this source of "popular strength" is cut off. Because of the opening for moral if not legal fraud through this licensed colonizing, the Legislature last winter amended the Primary law, forbidding transfers and limiting the right to vote in the primaries to those citizens who enrolled when they voted at last fall's election.

Going Over to Tammany.

The Sheehanites are turning to Tammany in the Ninth since the news of the "placation of Dowling" got about. Bernard Courtney, treasurer of the Pequot Club; John Jordan, a director, and his son, John L. Jordan, who is Assistant Superintendent of Buildings in the Low administration, having been appointed as a Sheehanite, have gone into Goodwin's club, and "Tom" Smith is authority for the statement that Devery's followers are in a panic and that nearly three hundred former Deveryites will be proposed for membership at the meeting of the Horatio Seymour Club. "Oh, yes, we knew they were traduced," said Devery, "but they couldn't beat us with clubs."

Dr. William J. Stewart, chairman of the Devery General Committee, said: "The decent people are with us and we shall win." Washington Gibbons, said: "The odds are 5 to 1 on Devery."

JEWELLER'S FAILURE LAID TO BROTHER

Isador Michelson Forced to Make an Assignment Following Alleged Forgeries of Hyman, His Travelling Salesman

Because of the misdeeds of his younger brother, Isador Michelson, for twenty-five years a wholesale jeweller, of No. 41 John street, has been forced to make an assignment. Mr. Michelson's liabilities amount to $23,684, and his assets are $11,000. Mr. Michelson is 31 at his home, No. 49 East One Hundred and Eighteenth street.

The story of the failure of Mr. Michelson is that of a man who tried to do a brother and was repaid by dishonesty. Mr. Michelson's brother, Hyman, worked his way up in the jewelry business until he was his brother's salesman. He travelled over the better part of the country and sold and delivered goods.

A short time ago Mr. Michelson received two notes supposed to have been drawn by Southern merchants for goods purchased amounting to $17,000. The notes came due, and the jeweller wrote to the merchants about them and received word that they owed him no money; that the goods had been paid for. Mr. Michelson went to Roanoke, Va., where he met his brother and told him what had happened.

The brother said he would explain everything, and the jeweller, who he said he had delivered to the merchants, was in his trunk. Then he said: "Excuse me for a minute."

All Mr. Michelson learned after that was in a note brought to him by a bell-boy of the hotel signed by his brother. The writer said he had done wrong, was sorry and that he never would be seen again.

RIVAL CANDIDATES FOR TAMMANY LEADERSHIP IN NINTH AND SOME OF THE OTHER MEN WHO FIGURE IN THE BIG POLITICAL FIGHT.

IS A POLICEMAN AND NOT A BONE

So When a Burglar's Pal Began to Gnaw His Hand He Dropped His Prisoner and Ran to a Hospital.

There is much of the mysterious in the case of the man representing himself to be a policeman in plain clothes who called at Bellevue Hospital early to-day with a badly lacerated hand. Carried away by the absorbing interest of the tale so dramatically told by the injured man the young physician who cauterized and dressed the wound forgot to register his name, as is required by the hospital authorities.

While the doctor was working over the injured hand he asked how it had been plain. For the marks were plainly made by teeth. The injured man said he had seen two burglars enter a grocery store and he had followed, coming upon them leaning over a desk, exploring drawers and pigeon holes by the light of a dark lantern. He called out that they were under arrest, but the larger and more vicious-looking of the pair turned and cried: "Not on your life!"

"I seized him by the throat and started to drag him toward the door," said the self-styled policeman, "but he was stronger than I supposed and put up a good, stiff fight, the smaller man all the while pulling at me from behind."

"The smaller chap was insignificant enough until the impulse to bite seized him. Doctor, that man had the sharpest teeth I ever felt. He gnawed away at my left hand until I had to let go my hold on the larger man and run for it."

The young physician admitted that he might have made just as hasty an exit, and, pondering over the thrilling story, he entirely forgot to ask the relator's name until he had gone.

Now, at Police Headquarters, it is reported that the grocery store of W. G. Russell, at No. 227 First avenue, was entered on the night of the 1st inst. when one called up on the telephone with the information that thieves had been seen there, but nothing of great value was taken.

The puzzle is: Who was the mysterious policeman? The sergeants of all the stations for many blocks north and south hold up their right hands and declare they do not know the answer.

POLICE CAPTAIN'S AUTO TRIP

Commander of Far Rockaway Station Going to Chicago.

Police Capt. Louis Kreuscher, in command of the Far Rockaway station, started out to-day to make a police record. It is not likely that there will be many policemen to try to wrest it from him, for it will require a lot of money.

With a fine new touring automobile—one of the most expensive makes—Capt. Kreuscher started for Chicago. He was accompanied by his wife. He will cover several thousand miles on his trip, going a roundabout way and visiting Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and all the other big cities on the way. He started over a southerly route and will return by the most northern good roads.

The captain has a leave of absence of twenty days—his annual vacation. He hopes to set some hard figures for long distance automobilists to beat.

ICE WAGON CRUSHES BOY.

Hugh Hanley, Six Years Old, Dies of Internal Injuries.

Little Hugh Hanley, of No. 354 First avenue, died early to-day as a result of injuries received in front of the American Ice Company plant, at No. 40 East Fifty-third street. His death was due to internal injuries.

The lad was six years old and with a number of companions was playing on the steps by the ice plant when he fell between the platform and an ice wagon. The wheels crushed his side and he was carried to his home.

JUST LIKE DRAMA AT TAMMANY HALL

One-Act Piece Put On to Enable Leader Murphy to Give an Order Without Appearing to Do So.

In a pretty stage setting, Murphy (C.), Deputy Attorney-General Maurice B. Blumenthal, Chairman of the Speakers' Committee (R. C.), and Secretary "Tom" Smith in the wings at the left, waiting for his cue; merry villagers represented by the newspaper reporters grouped about, a dramatic one-act piece was "put on" at Tammany Hall.

Enter Blumenthal, frowning fiercely at Leader Murphy in his blandest, most innocent smile, sitting among the "merry villagers."

BLUMENTHAL—Mr. Murphy, Mulqueen is circulating all through the Twenty-ninth Assembly District this reprint from a Sunday newspaper in which you are quoted as saying you are for Mulqueen for leader of the district, and that you sent for Thomas E. Rush and me and called us off in our fight to beat Mr. Mulqueen.

Blumenthal breathes hard, his chest heaving. Murphy's brows knit up in inquiry. He takes the objectionable reprint from Blumenthal's hand and reads.

MURPHY—Why, this purports to be an interview with Mr. Smith. Tom! Enter Secretary Smith (that was his cue, you know).

T. SMITH—Yes, sir.

BLUMENTHAL—It quotes Mr. Smith as Mr. Murphy's representative, you know, and we want to know if it is true. T. SMITH (reading sotto voce, then aloud)—It is a lie. I never said that. I was asked if Mr. Rush's Oceola Club was the organization club in the Twenty-ninth, and said there was no organization club in the district. I was asked where I, as secretary of the Hall, addressed communications for the district, and said to the Jackson Club. This was the head and front of my offending.

BLUMENTHAL (to Murphy)—Well, have you sent for Mr. Rush and me and called us off the fight?

MURPHY—I have sent for no one; I have called no one off.

BLUMENTHAL—But Mulqueen is saying that you told him you were in favor of his election.

MURPHY (sternly)—I never said so. I am not interfering in district affairs. You must fight it out among yourselves. Why, it has been told around in the Thirty-first that I was opposed to the re-election of Mr. Hopper. I never said anything of the kind. I am not opposed to Mr. Hopper.

BLUMENTHAL—Thanks. That will clear the atmosphere. (To the merry villagers, seated all by the big gate.) Everybody knows Murphy wants Rush elected in the Twenty-ninth and I wanted to get it straight. Well, beat Mulqueen to a standstill.

This illustrates one way Mr. Murphy has of informing warring district factions what he would like to have them do.

PANAMA HAS NO BREED.

PANAMA, Sept. 10.—There was no bread in Panama yesterday, owing to the Bakers' Union ordering a general strike on account of a difference with the master bakers regarding the number of working hours. The bakers refused to accede to the demands of the strikers.
